

CONSERVATION IN CHICAGO

Like Jane Goodall, lots of people in Chicago work to protect the environment and all the different types of animals that live in it. Here are some examples of Chicago conservation groups!

The Nature Conservancy

Chicago Wilderness

Lincoln Park Zoo

Click on each title to learn more!

CONSERVATION IN CHICAGO

“The Nature Conservancy is a world-wide group “working to create a world where people and nature can thrive.”

This organization has programs on 6 of the 7 continents, and in Illinois it has worked to protect local nature and wildlife. You can learn about how they protect all sorts of different habitats, as well as how they fight big environmental issues like climate change.

Click here to access their website and get involved!

CONSERVATION IN CHICAGO

Chicago Wilderness is a group based in the Midwest working to “preserve, improve, and expand nature and quality of life.”

This organization focuses on bringing together diverse groups of people to help protect our local habitats, and you can join them at events or with volunteer work.

Click here to access their website and get involved!

CONSERVATION IN CHICAGO

The Lincoln Park Zoo has “one of the largest zoo-based conservation and science programs in the country” that researches animals all around the world, including those local to Chicago. You can visit the animals they protect at the zoo and learn about the environments and species they research.

Click here to access their website and get involved!